Tagline

How many secrets could one family hide?

Short synopsis

Two sisters, as close as they are different, find themselves after a long separation.

Long synopsis

After long years of absence, and following her father's stroke, Eugenia returns to La Quietud, the family estate near Buenos Aires where she is reunited with her mother and sister. The three women are forced to confront the emotional traumas and dark secrets of their shared past, which played out against the backdrop of the military dictatorship. Long-buried grievances resurface and jealousies are revealed, all amplified by the unsettling physical resemblance between the two sisters... Following the multi-award winning EL CLAN, director Pablo Trapero continues his exploration of family and the legacy of Argentina's troubled past.
