Short synopsis

Academy Award® winner Jean Dujardin dives into a joyfully crazed world in the new offbeat comedy from Benoît Delépine & Gustave Kervern.

Long synopsis

He's lived for too long off his parents. It's time for 40-year-old slacker Jacques to get by on his own. One-time gigolo and a borderline bum, he knows what he wants - to become rich and famous. He even has a business plan: tourism combined with cheap plastic surgery. Jacques moves in with his older sister, Monique, who manages an Emmaus village in the south west of France. And before long, the smooth-talking chancer has convinced a group of workers to pool their meagre funds and set out on a trip to a clinic in Bulgaria, where all their dreams of a brighter and more beautiful future will all come true. If only...
